Specification

The examiner has not checked the specification to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors (grammatical, typographical and idiomatic). Cooperation of the applicant(s) is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant(s) may become aware of in the specification, in the claims and in any future amendment(s) that applicant(s) may file.

Applicant(s) is also requested to complete the status of any copending applications referred to in the specification by their Attorney Docket Number or Application Serial Number, if any.

The status of the parent application(s) and/or any other application(s) cross-referenced to this application, if any, should be updated in a timely manner.

Election/Restriction

This application contains claims 47 and 48, drawn to an invention nonelected with traverse in the reply filed on July 21, 2008. A complete reply to the final rejection must include cancellation of nonelected claims or other appropriate action (37 CFR 1.144) See MPEP § 821.01.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148

USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 35-46 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US 6,054,112 to Hasenzahl et al. in view of US 5,919,430 to Hasenzahl et al., for the reasons set forth in the previous office action.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed March 9, 2009 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant's arguments are considered to point out the differences between each applied reference and then conclude that "alone or in combination", they do not teach the claimed invention. This is not convincing because there is no argument with respect to the reference combination, only a conclusion that the combination is flawed. Clearly, if each reference alone taught all features of the claimed invention, a combination of references would not have been applied.

With respect to the position that the '112 reference does not teach that the optional shaping step is conducted after calcination, such position is not convincing. The reference describes the step after the description of washing and calcining, but does not require such step to take place thereafter. With respect to Hasenzahl '430, it is considered that Hasenzahl '430 teaches that the shaping step can take place during and before because it indicates that the shaped objects obtained after hydrothermal reaction may be calcined. Accordingly, the examiner maintains that the prior art clearly teaches the steps can be conducted in any desired manner.

With respect to any alleged unexpected result, such is completely unconvincing. The specification itself and the examples presented therein do not require nor indicate that there is any criticality associated with the order of steps, so long as the material is washed with water either after separation, or after shaping. The comparative data compares an unwashed zeolite. The closest prior art is the applied prior art, which clearly teaches washing the product of hydrothermal synthesis. This is exactly the step that applicant's specification indicates is inventive. In fact, the washing of a zeolitic filter cake after hydrothermal synthesis at temperatures in the range claimed is conventional and notoriously well known in this field of technology and fairly shown by several additional references already of record, e.g. EP 0 200 280 and EP 0 405 978.

Accordingly, the preponderance of the evidence on this record supports a conclusion of obviousness.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
